

PAINTING WITH CONTEMPORARY TECHNIQUES

Contemporary art generally includes all movements from the second half of the 20th century to the present day, a period characterized by experimentation and the tendency to favor expressionism rather than realism.

The medium used is mainly acrylic paint, which is perfect for painting flat, solid color fields. It's not easy to create detailed shading with acrylics because it's a type of paint that dries very quickly, so this technique is used primarily to create works with a synthetic or abstract style, where color takes center stage. It's also possible to experiment with textures using painting knives instead of brushes or gesso as a base.

The program indicated may vary according to the duration of the course and the level of the student.

- Introduction to the use of support materials: paper, canvas, wood.
